Something hard to miss. Its name is Columbia and it is a Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile. Here is one more hint: Last year it celebrated its 50th birthday.

A beverage first known as “Brad’s Drink.” It’s brown in color and always sweet. The official beverage of the SC State Fair. What a treat!

Something big and red that helps put out fires.

It’s found under a big tent and often includes clowns, acrobats and other performers.

Something big and furry that teaches you how to prevent forest fires.

Something large and yummy. It’s green on the outside and the red goes in your tummy. It might win a prize if it’s big enough in size.

This sculpture weighs 1500 pounds and is made from recycled materials.

Something that moo’s - that should be enough of a clue!

There are two types here today, beef and dairy - can you tell the difference?

Oink Oink. Do you know two names for this animal?

A scene from long ago. It’s called Heritage Village, and it shows how life used to be. Can you name two things you see in Heritage Village?

Come back to the fairgrounds this December to watch this light show. Can you name it?

Can you spy FRED? Where is FRED and what is FRED?

Somewhere during your ride, look for the 93.5 van! Where do you spy it?